Magical Objects and Dark Stories explores the role of folklore and personal mythologies that ritualise the process of art making. Art and life become interwoven through dark stories that convey messages of warning, protection and caution. Simultaneously, the works lure and engage audiences within its enchanted and textured world.

This exhibition brings together a unique teacher/established artist and student/emerging artist collaboration addressing dichotomies around life and death, human and animal, fact and fiction through a series of symbolic self-portraits and magical objects. These objects resonate as sculptural relics, narrating not only our rites of passage but also representing them as magical rituals.
