Internet-Based Language Learning: Pedagogies and Technologies

Edited by
Jeong-Bae Son
Contents

List of Contributors v

Series Editor’s Preface vii

Preface ix

Chapter 1 Metacognition and Strategy Use in Web-Based Language Learning 1
Wai Meng Chan and Ing Ru Chen

Chapter 2 Integrating Moodle into a Process Writing Course 21
Brian Gregory Dunne

Chapter 3 Digital Storytelling in Indigenous Education: Internet Technologies to (Re-)Establish L1 and C1 Literacy and Fluency 47
Debra Hoven

Chapter 4 Using Online Dictation Exercises for Improving Comprehension of English Reduced Forms 75
Michael J. Crawford and Jeong-Bae Son

Chapter 5 Practical Steps to Create and Implement an Effective Web-Authoring Project 93
Iain Davey
Chapter 6  Using Web-Based Portfolios in CALL Teacher Education  107
   Jeong-Bae Son

Chapter 7  L2 Blogging: The Emergence of a New Voice in the Foreign Language Classroom  119
   Antonie Alm

Chapter 8  A Language Teacher's BALL: Reflections on Blogging for Learning, Teaching and Researching Languages  141
   Penelope Coutas

Contributors

Antonie Alm, University of Otago, New Zealand

Wai Meng Chan, National University of Singapore, Singapore

Ing Ru Chen, National University of Singapore, Singapore

Penelope Coutas, Murdoch University, Australia

Michael J. Crawford, Dokkyo University, Japan

Iain Davey, Doshisha University, Japan

Brian Gregory Dunne, Osaka Shoin Women's University, Japan

Debra Hoven, Athabasca University, Canada

Jeong-Bae Son, University of Southern Queensland, Australia